Solar Rooftop

Indonesia's Solar Potential

- Indonesia's PV expansion is expected to gain momentum with supportive regulations introduced by the Government.
- Huge solar energy potential combined with strong commitment to accelerate renewables energy in Indonesia. Based on target set by the Government, solar PV capacity in Indonesia is expected to reach 2.1 GWp by 2030.
- This also provides opportunities for solar rooftop demand growth from the industrial estates.

Customers will be more interested with our solar panel approach as it provides integrated generating system with our power plants to cover solar power intermittency.

Company's Solar Rooftop Initiatives

- In 2018, the Company began exploring the possibility of renewable energy power plant development through a 52.5kWp solar rooftop installed at the Company's operational office in Jababeka.
- We begin to commercialize the option for solar panels as renewable energy sources to customers a year later, in 2019.

Co-firing with Biomass in CFB Boiler

- › To diversify its generation mix, in 2017, Company successfully commissioned its Coal-Fired Power Plant with Circulating Fluidized Bed (CFB) boiler technology.
- › Despite that, our focus on the environment has never wavered. The investment in the CFB boiler supplied by Valmet, a Finnish company, allows us to burn wider range of coal, and achieve lower emissions by the relatively low firing temperature of the CFB (limiting NO_x) and by the use of limestone injection as needed to capture any oxides of Sulphur (SO₂). At the same time, this CFB Boiler technology also has the ability to burn biomass.
- › In 2020, we substituted coal with 1,403 ton of PKS or equal to 2,271 MWh of power (2019: 1,089 ton of PKS or equal to 1,635 MWh of power).
- › The Company plans to commission its biofuel feeding system on the second half of 2021. The biomass fuel upgrade allows us to replace coal with biomass for power generation in stages. Palm Kernel Shells and Woodchips will be used as biofuel in the beginning. Other biofuel options will be later taken into consideration as other alternatives.
- › Going forward, the Company will increase its use of biomass to replace a portion of the coal.

The Company's commitment toward environmental aspect is also proven by securing the Assurance Statement conforming all Company's work area' 2020 GHG emission in accordance with ISO 14064-1:2008 in 2021.

The assurance statement has been verified and certified by international certification body, Transpacific Certifications Limited (TCL).
